

About Lynda M. Carlberg

Lynda M. Carlberg, Director of the Calcasieu Parish Public Library System from 1978 to 1997, left a legacy of professional excellence on every level.

Her tenure as director of Calcasieu Parish Public Library was marked by many achievements, the most notable being the passage of a $12 million dollar capital improvement bond that provided for the building or remodeling of all 13 libraries in the parish.

As Mark Murray wrote in the Lake Charles American Press on November 23, 1997, "Her dreams were big-her drive to plan for those dreams were bigger-and her ability to build those dreams into reality was colossal. While she is gone from our presence, she continues to live on through her gifts of her time, her vision, and her heart as reflected throughout libraries across the parish. The fruits of her labor will indeed assure Lynda Carlberg's presence with us for generations to come."

Lynda Carlberg died tragically on November 17, 1997 following an automobile accident.

A native of Shreveport, she served in various library positions throughout state, most notably as Director of the Calcasieu Parish Public Library system from 1978 until her death.

Many of the staff Lynda worked with say there will never be another director quite like Lynda. She gave her staff her very best, and she drew the very best from them. She was honest, forthright, and believed in her heart the true meaning of service. Those who never had the opportunity to work with Lynda hear the many stories about outstanding leadership and high moral standards.

Her legacy lives on through the lives she touched directly and through the lives that her colleagues now touch.

As one staff member expressed, "A miracle, Lynda Carlberg, one little lady who touched so many, dreamed so great, accomplished so much, can never be gone from our hearts, our thoughts, and our memories. Let us hope and work very hard to keep her dream and her work securely at the standard of excellence she wished to maintain."
