She was hired to nurse them back to health...instead,
she took their lives.

For months, the DaVita Dialysis Center in Lufkin, Texas, had been baffled by the rising number of deaths and injuries occurring in their clinic. In April alone, they'd rushed thirty-four patients to the hospital. But no one expected such a horrific cause to be behind it all.

Kimberly Clark Saenz was a well-liked licensed vocational nurse at the center. The East Texas nurse was a mother of two, and known for her smiles and the stories she told to help patients pass the time. But on April 28, 2008, witnesses came forward to say that instead of lifesaving medication, they'd seen Saenz adding toxic bleach to IV ports. Turns out, it wasn't the first time. Once caught, the shocking story of Saenz's murderous practices began to unravel...

Best-selling author John Foxjohn epitomizes the phrase "been there—done that." Born and raised in the rural East Texas town of Nacogdoches, he quit high school and joined the Army at seventeen. Viet Nam veteran, Army Airborne Ranger, policeman and homicide detective, retired teacher and coach, now he is a multi-published author.

John Foxjohn published his first book in 2006, and since that time, his star has risen to new heights with the people who matter most—the readers. Readers voted his novel, Cold Tears as the best mystery in the world. His historical fiction, Journey of the Spirit would follow in the accolades. Readers voted it second best in the mainstream category. In 2008, readers voted Foxjohn as the author of the year.

As a recipient of RWA's STAR award, Foxjohn became one of few men to receive this honor.

With three books on at least one best-seller list, he is in constant demand to speak to groups, especially writer groups, and twice he's won mentoring awards from different writing chapters.

Foxjohn is one of the few writers to present a class at both the Mystery Writers of America national convention and the Romance Writers of America.

Foxjohn is a member of Mystery Writers of America, Romance Writers of America, Elements of Romance, Kiss of Death, Lethal Ladies, Sisters-in-Crime, East Texas Writers Guild, League of Texas Writers, and more online writing groups than he can count. He is a full time writer and speaker and lives in Lufkin, Texas, but travels extensively across the U.S.
