

Meet local author C. A. Rolyn (a.k.a. Mary Smith)

Wednesday, April 27, 2016

2 to 4 p.m.

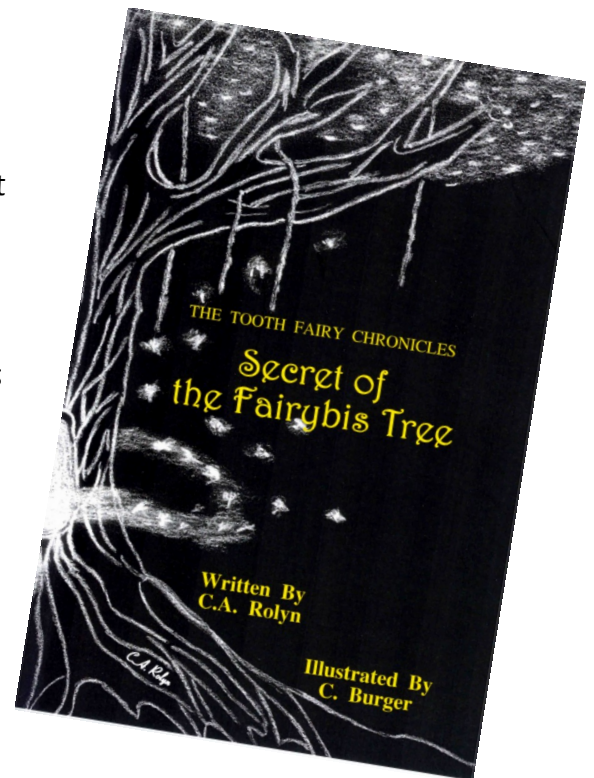

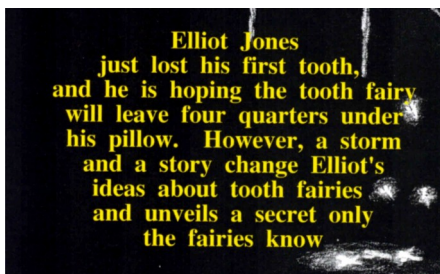

Children's Wing

C. A. Rolyn is the author and publisher of a new children's book titled, Secret of the Fairybis Tree. It is a unique Tooth Fairy story written in a style that older children and adults will enjoy reading. This is the first story in a series of stories already in progress. Although this is her first published children's book; she has been writing and publishing articles as well as short stories for the last twenty years. She has written articles for The Sunrise Newsletter, a Christian publication, and published several works on HubPages.com under the name Ana Lewis. Some of those works include: I'll never say goodbye; The Passenger; and Training Lulu the Shih Tzu.

Ms. Rolyn attended school in Anacoco and Leesville, La., where she graduated in 1965. She is married, the mother of five children and the grandmother of eleven children. She is the daughter of a local poet who had the heart of a Gypsy, so life took her to many areas of the country. She practiced her craft, studied, took creative writing courses, and joined a creative group while living in Renton, Washington. She states that life, family, faith, an over active imagination, and the ADHD world she lives in, is a constant source of inspiration. She credits her love of writing with an insatiable impulse to paint what her mind creates with words.

Mrs. Rolyn currently lives in Anacoco, La. where she is better known as Mary Carolyn Walker Smith.
